Proposed School Budget Submitted To Taxpayers

Only 12 persons turned out Monday night to the meeting in the high school cafeteria to hear the Addison Central School District Board of Education members explain a proposed 1964-65 school budget.

Each member of the board was responsible for answering questions from the audience on one particular section of the budget.

Another such meeting will be held tonight (Wednesday) at the Valley School and a final meeting will be held in the high school cafeteria next Monday evening at 8 p. m., when it is hoped more people can attend.

The estimated total of the proposed 1964-65 budget is $1,245,415.67. The estimated revenues other than taxes is $1,052,784.44. The amount to be raised by taxes is $193,631.13 which is $1,092.25 more than last year. The estimated raise in the budget is much less than the $62,363.64 jump in last year's budget from the 1962-63 budget.

The final budget will be voted upon at the annual meeting on July 14.

The terms of office of board members Henry Gottstine and Edwin Symonds expire this year. Both Mr. Gottstine and Mr. Symonds have announced intentions of seeking reelection to the five year posts. Dr. Ralph Vona announced his candidacy for the school board last week. Voters will vote on the candidates at an all-day election to be held the next day after the annual election or on July 15.

The vote on board members was changed to the day following the annual election due to the length of time the annual meeting usually takes.

Miss Sylvia Graduate of Broome Tech

Binghamton — Miss Elsie T. Sylvia, 51 Front Street, Addison, was graduated from Broome Technical Community College June 12. She received the Associate in Applied Science degree, majoring in the Medical Office Assistant program.

The 1964 graduating class was the largest in the 17-year history of the two-year college, exceeding last year's record total by 21.

There were three speakers on the streamlined program that took about an hour and 20 minutes. They were: Wilbur J. Kupfman of Binghamton, a member of the college Board of Trustees and president of the Kupfman Division of Robinson Technical Products, Inc.; Frank V. Alessi of Endicott, president of the graduating class and Cecil C. Tyrrell, president of the college.

The freshman class gave a reception for the graduates and guests in the Student Center immediately following the ceremonies.

No human endeavor has contributed more to the progress of civilization than the art of printing.

REPORT OF THE WEEK

by Wilbur Peek

Urgency required Wilbur to rush to Sayre, today to get the engraving of a picture on page 8 and so, Mr. Peek decided it was time that the female half of the Peek household offered a few observations.

And the first one, (with calluses and strained muscles to back her up), is that any lady who wants a physical fitness program comparable to the excellent ones offered by Jack LaLanne, should move to a large house with an even larger yard. Then they should have their husband plant a vegetable garden and be an "expert" flower grower, to give the "little lady" a few extra jobs other than housekeeping and child-raising.

But to Mrs. Peek's dismay, her efforts thus far have not produced anything spectacular such as the President of the Mother's Club has to show in her side yard, or the many neatly kept lawns in evidence around Addison — one for example being the home of the Knepley sisters on Maple Street.

Mrs. Peek has met more of her neighbors than when living in town, and is enjoying their neigh-

Investigation Continues In Gas Station Theft

Investigation is continuing into the robbery of the Hovey Brothers Esso Station on Tuscarora Street. Investigating officer is Addison Police Chief Elmer C. Bovee.

The station, operated by Ruel and Richard Hovey was broken into sometime between 10:30 p. m. Friday night and between 3:30 and 4:00 a. m. Saturday morning and between $38 and $40 taken from the cash register. It is believed entry was made by breaking a window in the greasing room. Some small change was left in the register. Richard Hovey said he believed nothing was missing, though candy bars were on the counter near the register.

Ruel Hovey who opened the station Saturday did not notice the theft at once as some one else closed the business the evening before.

Presbyterians Give Unanimous Endorsement To Consolidation With Methodists In Overchurched Areas

The Rev. Stuart V. Curnock of the First Presbyterian Church of Addison has just returned from the 107th annual meeting of the Presbyterian Synod of New York at Keuka College, Keuka Park, N. Y., held June 16 to 18. Mr. Curnock was one of 186 delegates representing 325,000 communicant members in the state and Puerto Rico.

The delegates acted on matters calling for interdenominational cooperation, particularly in rural and inner-city work, campus religious programming, service to migrant laborers and joint mission strategy. Dr. Theodore Conklin of the New York State Council of Churches hailed as particularly valuable the Synod's unanimous endorsement of the "Joint Statement of Strategy" prepared by Methodist Bishop W. Ralph Ward and Presbyterian Synod Executive Alvin Dunn. Smith. This dealt with the ending of competition in overchurched areas by consolidation of churches or withdrawal of one denomination in favor of the other, placing concern for "a strong local church above denominational interests."

The Synod voted to accept a

Puerto Rico came in for special attention. The Synod has raised within $10,000 of the $600,000 required to donate a new chapel to the (Presbyterian) Inter American University. Plans were advanced for giving the Puerto Rican churches and missions a greater degree of initiative and responsibility.

The Synod's Special Committee on Religion and Race gave strong backing to the state's Department of Education for its position with respect to the elimination of segregation in public schools.

Mrs. Curnock attended the meeting of the Synodical Society which was held concurrently at Keuka College.

79 Graduates Receive School Diplomas At ACS Exercises

A capacity crowd saw 79 Addison Central School graduates receive their diplomas Tuesday evening, June 23 at the 89th annual commencement exercises in the high school auditorium. The class was the largest ever to be graduated from the school.

Guest Speaker

Dr. Herbert A. Wisbey, Jr., professor of history at Corning Community College, gave the address. After walking to stage center to "get a good look at the graduating class", he asked for a show of hands of those intending to enter Corning Community College and expressed his pleasure at the many hands that went up.

Using the theme, "Getting Involved", Dr. Wisbey cited a case earlier this year in New York City where a young woman was stabbed to death in full view of 38 witnesses and the murderer left the scene of the crime twice only to return each time. When finally the police were called, the young woman was dead, thought took them only two minutes to arrive on the scene. During the investigation the witnesses each said they "didn't wish to get involved."

Dr. Wisbey said, "My advice to you is to get involved when you go to college. Be more than a grassy grind, get into the extra student activities of the college. If you don't go to college, get involved in community affairs. You don't have to run for president of the school board — you don't have to be captain — be a member of the team. Find ways of making your nation — your state — your community the best right here at home."

The speaker, introduced by Edward Brown, Building Principal, began his remarks to the graduates by saying, "I'm the last obstacle you have to face before you receive your diplomas."

Salutatory Address

Miss Janella Shumway, salutatorian, greeted those present and addressed most of her remarks to the undergraduates, advising them to "set their goals high — to reach the goal of graduation — that education isn't just being taught what you don't know and that the Class of 1964 hopes will be accepted as future citizens in this world of turmoil."

Valedictory

Miss Sharon Rounds, valedictorian, also had words of advice for the undergraduates, told them to "finish your education" and "keep your goal plus along."

The senior high chorus sang "Let There Be Peace on Earth" and "The Halls of Ivy" with the choral director, Mrs. Willard Barrows at the piano.

Awards Presentations

Edward Brown announced the awards as follows: Addison Community Scholarships of $200 each to Betsy Kahn and Virginia Moore; the Addison Teachers Association Scholarship of $300 to the senior who plans preparing for the teaching profession, Sue Oaken; The Martha Matilda Harpur Award presented by the Harpur School of Beauty Culture to Karen Dewey; the Automobile Association Award for proficiency in Driver Education, a plaque, to Ralph Crane; The American Legion Scholarship Award of $1,000 to Sue Oaken; the Bausch and Lomb Science Award to the senior having the highest 4-year average in Science, James Ripley; The Crisco Award to the Home Economics student participating in that field for four years, Joan Richtmyer; the Owensite Chapter DAR Good Citizen award of a certificate and pin to Virginia Moore; the John B. Davis Athletic Award to James Ripley; the Wolcott Sports award to the senior contributing the most to sports in a four-year period, Gary Rollins; the Babe Ruth Sportsmanship award to the boy and girl graduate showing the most promise in 4 years of sports participation, Alea Baker and Gary Rollins; The American Legion Auxiliary Committee on Americanism award to the eighth grade boy and girl having the highest average in American history, a medal to Nancy Merger and Thomas Catchpole; the Alumni Award for the highest class average in each senior high class; $10 to senior Sharon Rounds; $5 each to Gayle Welch, Junior; Carol Merger, sophomore; and Michael Knepley, freshman; The Corland Alumni Association award, a key, to the junior having an above average class average, Amy Brown. County Committee Reports On Sales Tax

by Robert G. Aldrich

On January 3rd of this year Earl Wilson, Supervisor of the Town of Tuscarora, proposed a resolution to the Steuben County Board, to appoint a Sales Tax and Compensating Use Tax, Fact Finding Committee. The resolution was adopted and the Committee appointed. The Committee was to report its findings at the March meeting, but more extensive research delayed the report until June.

In the research the Committee first conferred with authorities in Elmira, on the number of personnel, cost of administration, sales tax revenue, its distribution, effect on tax rates and budgets. Added information was acquired from the Chemung County Board of Supervisors.

Similar research delayed the report until June.

In the research the Committee first conferred with authorities in Elmira, on the number of personnel, cost of administration, sales tax revenue, its distribution, effect on tax rates and budgets. Added information was acquired from the Chemung County Board of Supervisors.

Similar research was done in meetings with officials at Binghamton, Broome County, Rochester, Monroe County, Watertown and Jefferson County.

From these meetings the effect on business, burdens of collection by merchants and the reaction of the effected public was gained. Following several meetings the Committee rendered its report and confined said report to a statement of their findings and opinions, without making precise recommendations as to the disposal of the matter.

It is the Editor's opinion that this is the proper approach and that a decision should be made, only after study and the entire voting population in Steuben County is informed of all available, known facts. With this in mind, the context of the report follows (in part), and will be continued from week to week on this page so that our readers may have ample opportunity to study it and formulate their own opinions. It is suggested that this and the continuations of the report be saved for future reference. As we progress through the report, Editorial opinions may be expressed and it is hoped that "Letters To The Editor" will be submitted regarding your individual opinion.

THE NEED FOR THE TAX

The Committee has confined itself to the gathering, recording and presentation of factual material regarding the Sales Tax.

With few exceptions — we feel the study has been comprehensive and permits reasonably accurate and definite conclusions, inferences and projections.

We do not conceive it our province to advocate or champion either the adoption or rejection of such a tax, believing our purpose best served by a survey from and on which others may base an opinion as to the need for this type of non-property tax.

However, the study resolution charged the committee with its expression as to the need for the tax in Steuben County.

Since the question of need enters the area of opinion and conjecture, we limit our opinion to the present structure and levels of taxation and expenditures of all municipal governments within the County of Steuben, including school districts.

Keeping in mind that generalizations are subject to exceptions, we believe:

1. The Sales Tax cannot be justified if imposed for the sole purpose of raising revenue in addition to our present real estate tax levy.

In varying degrees, County, Town, City, Village and School units are meeting their expenditure requirements through a combination of state aid and real property tax.

Actually, over the past 10 years, County Government has had the smallest percentage increase in taxes levied, of any class of municipality. However, County Government and particularly the Board of Supervisors must be concerned with the total or aggregate tax levy by all units within the County. The tax raised by any one particular town, village or other unit, may not be oppressive. But the total levy by all municipalities in Steuben County ($10,634,427.41 in 1963) (Table "A") and its ever increasing trend, compels County Government to maintain a continuing investigation and study of the non-property tax.

Only County Government is given power to levy a county-wide sales tax for general purposes. County Government is in a position to make a judgment as to whether real property has reached the limit of its ability to carry the tax load. Also, — Counties are given power to make the most effective distribution of tax revenues.

Continuing responsibility is the motivation for continuing investigation and study. The intermittent turmoil and agitation caused thereby is understandable but regrettable. The public should understand that the Sales Tax will be a matter of ever current interest to County Government. Its obligation in this field permits no less.

2. We believe the need for the tax must be determined by a finding that the real property tax has reached or is approaching its limit, and/or its inequities are becoming too burdensome on a substantial segment of real property owners.

As pointed out, the sales tax should not be adopted merely to raise more money. Increased revenue can be obtained by raising the real property tax. This is the record of past experience contained in our study — "a steady general increase". A projection indicates the real property tax levy for all units of government must inevitably increase in a growing economy. The practice of economy may help limit the increase, — but, increase there will be. As in the private sector of our economy, costs of already established services are rising; new services are yet to be funded. If the rate of increase is in a normal and acceptable ratio to the increased income of the people (which is also inevitable in a growing economy) then, theoretically the limit of tax on real property

POWER FOR THE HOUR

By Robert G. Aldrich

And Jesus went about all the cities and villages, teaching in their synagogues and preaching the gospel of the kingdom; and healing every disease and every infirmity. When he saw the crowds, he had compassion for them, because they were harassed and helpless, like sheep without a shepherd. Then he said to his disciples, "The harvest is plentiful, but the laborers are few; pray therefore the Lord of the harvest to send out laborers into his harvest."

And he called to him his twelve disciples and gave them authority over unclean spirits, to cast them out, and to heal every disease and every infirmity. The names of the twelve apostles are these: first, Simon, who is called Peter, and Andrew his brother; James the son of Zebedee, and John his brother; Philip and Bartholomew; Thomas and Matthew the tax collector; ames the son of Alphaeus, and Thaddeus; Simon the Canananean, and Judas Iscariot, who betrayed him.

— Matthew 9:35-38 & 10:1-4

Nearly two thousand years ago, Jesus witnessed what is even more true today. The harvest of those in need of help is plentiful but the laborers are few. Today, not just in the far east, up north, down south or out west, but right here in the Southern Tier, the need is great. Our own local Vacation Bible School in just three days has proven that hundreds of children seek God, are willing workers, eager to learn and all they need is an invitation to come to His house. BUT, the laborers, the volunteer teachers of His work are few. They are as few in proportion to the need as the twelve apostles were in the time of Christ. Those who have given of their time and obvious talents shall be rewarded accordingly in heaven, so said Christ.

We weak, frail, mortals are not empowered to cast out unclean spirits, heal disease and infirmities but if we are truly professed and confessed Christians as we would have others believe, by our attendance in church, then God will guide us in His work of teaching these little ones the way to reach Him. Don't look for excuses or the million reasons that Satan will take pleasure in filling your mind with, for not volunteering to teach our "little sheep." During this week, a few have trembled with the fear of failure, almost to the point of tears but I know from the progress they have made that God has answered their prayers for help and they have moved forward in His work. A new light shines in their eyes, now. They have accepted the challenge, cast doubts, fears and excuses aside and are charging ahead.

Know, this: Whatever the mind of man can conceive and believe through God, he can achieve! Step forward, offer your services to your church and God's work. Teach these little ones His way and later, through them, you will see the fruit of your labor for as Christ has said, "And a little child shall lead them."

Confidential help will be given those who have a spiritual problem by a select panel of Christian leaders. Write to "Power For The Hour", Box B, Addison, N. Y. Comments concerning "Power For the Hour" are earnestly solicited.

would not be reached. However, no such orderliness now or will exist. On the contrary, our study indicates a large variety of inequities in the real property tax. As opposed to the sales tax, which is a fixed percentage of a fixed sales price, the real property tax is based upon an assessment or valuation of a parcel of real property. The parcel itself may be erroneously assessed as where the assessor has no knowledge of interior improvements costing $4,000.00, or where the parcel is not correctly assessed in relation to the property next door or down the street, or where all the real property in a given unit of government, say a town, is overvalued due to an equalization factor set by someone in Albany, N. Y., resulting unfairly in the taxpayers of that town paying more than their share of the county tax or the school district taxes.

Then there is the inequity among the people who pay or avoid the real property tax. Often, two, three or more wage earners live on one parcel of real property. This increased ability to pay is not reflected in the tax imposed because she had less ability to pay. It is hardly any answer to say that the widow should move to a less expensive home, as there is a rapidly growing segment of our population which finds itself in the same dilemma.

The committee has no information with regard to the number of real property owners over the age of 65 years and in the retired category. A retired person on a fixed income will find it progressively difficult to pay increased real property taxes. To offer him aid through property exemption is a decision to place this added tax burden on other property owners. The effect of both real property and sales tax on this class should be a matter for further study.

Tourists, as a class, also escape direct contribution for use of our public services. The greater the increase of real property tax, the more the inequities are compounded.

We are not unmindful of the actual, presumed or suspected burdens, disadvantages, and inequities which may exist in a non-property tax. To install a sales tax will not instantly solve all the inequities which have been pointed out to exist in the real property tax.

Our study and a careful review of the facts embodied in this report tend to destroy many of the arguments generally advanced against the sales tax, for example — that existing industry is appreciably handicapped, or that new industry is discouraged from locating within the area, or that it induces extra spending.

In spite of its glaring inequities and its ever increasing burden to date, we do not believe the ability of real property to bear the tax load has reached its limit.

We base this conclusion on our total study and also the following independent observations:

1. The tax burden on real property in Steuben County is about average with other counties which have no sales tax.
2. There has been no unusual increase in tax delinquency within Steuben County.
3. There is no general or organized protest against the tax level in Steuben County municipalities. Even individual protests are rare.
4. Although there are indications of a growing awareness (especially among farm groups) of the relief to be afforded real property by non-property taxes, there is no general clamor for the adoption of non-property taxes.

Our concern in this area and the reason why this opinion is limited to here and now is demonstrated by the increase in the school levy in a span of just one year. In 1962 the total school tax in Steuben County was $4,817,477.00, while in 1963, the total increased to $5,152,034.85.

Others may use the data obtained to draw conclusions which vary. We are aware that some already believe that a broader tax base must be established now, not later.

We recommend a continuous gathering, compiling and analysis of facts with regard to the real property tax and the sales tax, if not by a standing committee, then at least by Mr. Harold Shults, who has so ably aided our committee.

LETTER To The Editor

Addison, New York
June 19, 1964

Addison Advertiser
Robert Aldrich, Editor
Addison, New York
Dear Editor:

We would like to tell you and the readers of The Addison Advertiser a little bit about our most recent and enjoyable trip to Sterling Forest Gardens.

Where is Sterling Forest Gardens? From western New York take thruway to exit 16 at Harriman, then South on Route 17 to Route 210 and you are there.

On the eastern Seaboard of the United States from Washington to Boston lies a vast urban Super City. Nearly 40,000,000 people live here, the greatest cultural, educational, industrial region in the world. Situated near the heart of the Megalopolis in Orange County, N. Y., is Sterling Forest.

The land here is used as a residential section, research and development, forest and recreation as well as the New York State thruway, ski centre, Union Carbide, New York University, Reichold Chemical, Plastics Laboratory, New York University Building Administration, Swan Lake, Sterling Lake, and International Lake.

Behind the inspiration for Sterling Forest gardens lies a remarkable concept of community planning. The gardens represent one phase of this plan to preserve and properly use America's great natural beauty.

There are 125 acres of floral arrangements, fountains, lakes, flowing water garden, 300 exotic birds and wild animals.

These gardens were officially opened in 1960 by Mayor Robert Wagner and his Eminence Francis Cardinal Spellman. The guest book includes the names of foreign ministers and ambassadors from 60 foreign countries.

At the entrance of the gardens is the famous sculptured fountain of Achilles. The fountain weighs approximately 20 tons and was carved from St. Margaret stone which was used to build the world famous St. Stephen Cathedral in Vienna.

Sterling Forest is already rich in historical lore. At the time the Achilles fountain was being carved, Sterling Forest was being purchased by a group of colonists. The land was purchased from the Troquois Indians who called the forest "Onchiota", which means "land of rainbows".

At the entrance were many hanging baskets containing fuschias and begonias in many colors, and as one strolls through the wooded area you would see thousands of beautiful tuberoses, begonias in shades of red, orange, yellow and white. They were bordered by shades of sweet alyssum, petunias and ivy. As we continued along the wooded pathways we enjoyed the beautiful rhododendrons and laurel. Adjacent to this side of the garden is the ski lift to the top of Tiger Mountain.

There were Peacocks strutting through the flowers, thousands of goldfish in the lakes, a park for the deer and forest animals, a space age playground, and many other kinds of waterbirds, which come from India, China, Africa and Japan.

We were very fortunate to see a Peacock rudely displaying her young family of four, and as we crossed a little bridge to one side of Swan Lake we saw the beautiful flamingos and white swans. At one of the fountains we saw a Raintree. The romantic legend of the raintree is re-created in this fountain. Legend says good luck is bestowed upon the person making a wish there.

There was the poets garden, lovely with all kinds of perennial flowers, with an appropriate verse of poetry on plaques at the borders edge.

Strolling along from the poets garden we saw the beautiful rose gardens, then another beautiful pool containing water lilies, gold fish, and water cress. Extensive plantings of astilbe border the waterfall. There are several varieties of moss and Christmas and rock ferns. There are a number of white doves in an ornamental dove cart representing the large colony of exotic birds that have proved to be so popular in the gardens.

The focal point of the entire garden is a star shaped planting of white tulips (in the spring) mums in the fall. Spreading out from this formal bed is English ivy edged on two sides with hardy candytuft and bounded on two corners with low groups of white azaleas and white violas. The designs of these floral beds is copied from the Austrian tapestry design. Time and the Fates Sindal sculptured by Paul Manship, the creator of Prometheus in Rockefeller Center, is a cultural attraction of the gardens. Around the sundial are four statues each symbolizes morning, evening, night and day.

At Swan Lake is Peacock Patio, an outdoor refreshment and charcoal pit. At 2 and 4 p. m., daily a collection of highly educated birds: red animals, trained to perform feats of unusual skill — a goat, duck, chicken, rabbit and a pig, demonstrate how humane methods of handling and caring for animals can produce almost unbelievable results. PLEASING YOU — PLEASURES US

has this disease

Physicians call it obesity, but it's just as unhealthy if we call it pounds—too many pounds. In some places a chief cause of early death is malnutrition but in this country the Grim Reaper's number one helper is overeating. Overweight people subject their heart and blood vessels to undue stresses and strains. Every ounce of excess flesh is a menace to health. Which is why so many of us diet today. And those of us who are wise see a physician first. We, as professional pharmacists, know how effective a doctor's advice can be.
